General Comment

I totally disagree with the removal of the ability of a financial advisor to write covered calls on securities held in qualified plan accounts. Our office has done this successfully for years for clients and have had increased earning in their investment accounts with less risk than buying speculative stocks, or Mutual Funds that are growth oriented. As a CFP and CHFC with 40 yrs. of experience. I take seriously my fiduciary duties to protect my clients assets. I follow the pledge of "Do no Harm" and put the best interests of my clients first and foremost in any advisory capacity in which I serve them as an advisor.
